ATCO STRUCTURES & LOGISTICS (ASL) EXPANDS OPERATIONS IN ALASKA

Company celebrates new Anchorage office and mine project

CALGARY, Alberta – ATCO Structures & Logistics Ltd. (ASL), announced today the opening of a new branch office in Anchorage, Alaska. The international company has identified Alaska as an important area of growth for its unique products and services.

“Alaska has been an important market to ATCO for decades,” said Harry Wilmot, President, ATCO Structures & Logistics. “This expansion will allow us to work even closer with our aboriginal and joint venture partners as well as local clients.”

The expansion comes as ATCO is constructing a 78-person camp south of Fairbanks, Alaska. The camp is being built to U.S. code requirements and includes newly-manufactured accommodations, kitchen, dining room, recreation and office facilities for a mining project. Project completion is expected in late November.

“The design and quality of our product was originally proven in Alaska,” said Wilmot. “We built our reputation in tough northern climates and we believe in the Alaskan market.”

ASL’s housing experience in Alaska dates back to the late ‘70s when the company provided workforce housing along the Alyeska pipeline. Those early units were capable of withstanding extreme temperatures and winds of 120 miles per hour.

Today, ASL’s offerings have expanded to include rentals of modular offices, construction, camp catering, logistics, support services and noise reduction technologies. Together with its aboriginal partners, the company also operates and maintains radar and site communication equipment on 62 radar sites across the north, including 15 radar sites in Alaska under contract with the United States Air Force.

Part of the ATCO Group of Companies, ATCO Structures & Logistics offers complete infrastructure solutions to customers worldwide. With manufacturing facilities in North America, South America, Australia, and the Middle East and operations on six continents, the company has the expertise to deliver a rapid, full turnkey solution anywhere it is needed.
